

2023/24
Annual Review

Message from our Independent Chair Eloise Atkinson

We are pleased to share the 2023–2024 BHC Annual Review with you. As the housing crisis worsens, we remain unwavering in our commitment to advocating for increased investment in housing supply, and are proud to be active participants in providing solutions to the crisis.

This year has been one of remarkable growth and progress in our ongoing mission to provide social and affordable housing for Queenslanders. BHC is currently facilitating the largest pipeline of social and affordable housing in our organisation's history, and the most ambitious pipeline of any Community Housing Provider in Queensland.

Importantly, we are working hard to deliver several new projects that will provide social and affordable housing that our communities so desperately need. In Chermside we have two major developments underway with our first set to be completed by the end of 2024, which will provide 34 brand new social and affordable homes. Our other project in Chermside, along with developments in Stones Corner and Redcliffe are slated for completion in 2025.

In addition to these four developments, BHC has another 13 incredible projects in the pipeline across Brisbane, Ipswich, the Sunshine Coast, the Gold Coast, and Toowoomba. Delivering these projects, in challenging construction conditions, highlights the dedication and hard work of the BHC team and our partners. Their efforts have been crucial in securing the necessary funding and approvals, and the entire BHC team is working hard to bring these developments to life.

As one part of this, the BHC-QIC Consortium is leading the delivery and catalysing critical institutional investment, delivering new social, affordable and market rent dwellings, with funding support from the Queensland Government's $2 billion Housing Investment Fund. I particularly want to pay tribute to our financing partners, QIC and Australian Retirement Trust (ART). Together, our pioneering approach to bringing institutional capital into community housing continues to garner national recognition, showcasing the innovative strategies we are employing to address the housing crisis. This collaboration has been instrumental in facilitating the delivery of social and affordable housing at scale, and importantly, it is a model that is being replicated across the country.

We are equally encouraged by the support from all levels of government and will continue to work tirelessly to unlock opportunities for new housing developments.

We extend our thanks once again to our partners, shareholders, friends, and residents for their unwavering support. On behalf of the BHC Board of Directors, I would also like to acknowledge the efforts and commitment of the BHC team, led by CEO Rebecca Oelkers. This year has fostered a renewed sense of purpose and achievement, built on the knowledge that we are delivering homes for Queenslanders who are facing critical housing shortages.

Independent Chair

Letter from our CEO Rebecca Oelkers

I am incredibly proud of the BHC team for their hard work and dedication to being part of the solution for the housing crisis.

Every day we see the impact of the lack of affordable housing on our communities. In response, BHC is accelerating development projects to increase the supply of social and affordable housing. Our partnership with QIC is set to deliver about 600 new homes, with funding support from the Queensland Government and financing provided by Australian Retirement Trust and Housing Australia. Our projects with other stakeholders are also crucial in this effort, and we are grateful for their support.

As we near the end of our Strategic Plan 2021-2025, I have been reflecting on the genesis of this plan. When we set Goal One - seeking to grow our portfolio to 3500 social and affordable homes - it was highly ambitious, particularly with no funding programs available to help us achieve it. Yet, we are now delivering the largest pipeline of developments in our history, with 17 projects in the pipeline at various stages of planning or construction. 290 homes are set to be completed next year, and we will continue to roll out the delivery, providing desperately needed homes for Queenslanders.

In addition, we remain committed to our second goal: "Empowering our residents and communities to thrive." Our 2023-24 Impact Report showcases the incredible outcomes from our BHC Impact Fund. Over 400 households benefited directly from this initiative over the past year, made possible by Elevate Residential, our 'profit for purpose' real estate agency. Elevate Residential commits at least $150,000 annually to support programs that help BHC residents achieve their life goals.

We would like to thank our partners, contractors and consultants for their ongoing support. The magnitude of the housing crisis means that everyone needs to be engaged and fully committed to address it. I am so pleased by the energy and participation of all levels of government, the private sector, and our community partners in working together to come up with innovative solutions.

Implementing these solutions is made possible by the leadership of our Board of Directors, chaired by Eloise Atkinson. We are so fortunate to have the dedication and support of our skill based Board. At BHC we know firsthand the transformative impact of safe, stable, and affordable housing, and how it provides the platform from which people can build fulfilling lives. We look forward to what we can accomplish together in the next 12 months and thank you for your continued support and belief in our vision.

Strategic Plan Goal 1

Growing the supply of affordable housing

As we near the end of our 2021–2025 Strategic Plan, we are well on our way to achieving our goal of increasing our housing stock to 3,500 homes by 2025.

BHC's primary strategic objective and core mission is to expand the supply of safe and secure social and affordable housing. Over the past year, we have made substantial strides, with a number of developments now nearing completion.

In total we have 17 projects in various stages from planning through to construction. In addition to the two Chermside projects that we commenced last year, we started construction on three new projects including breaking the ground at a new site at Park Road Yeronga, which will deliver 75 new social and affordable homes.

Currently 600 of the homes in our pipeline are set to be funded by the Queensland Government's innovative Housing Investment Fund (HIF) and delivered in partnership with QIC, leveraging institutional investment from the Australian Retirement Trust and senior debt funding through Housing Australia.

We are thrilled to be welcoming residents home to the first HIF project in Chermside at the end of 2024. This building will provide 34 one and two-bedroom apartments for both social and affordable residents in a beautifully designed and well-located building. Our projects in Redcliffe, Stones Corner, and another project in Chermside, are all progressing well and are due for completion in mid- 2025.

The building industry continues to face labour shortages, high construction prices, and a competitive market for site acquisitions. Despite this, the BHC team has worked tirelessly with suppliers, contractors, consultants and partners to ensure that all projects continue to progress as swiftly as possible, to deliver more homes to those who desperately need them.

Strategic Plan Goal 2

Supporting our residents and communities to thrive

Having a roof over one's head is just the beginning of a fulfilling life. That's why our second strategic goal, Goal 2 - Supporting Our Residents and Communities to Thrive, is central to our Strategic Plan 2021-2025.

Key to achieving this goal is our Impact Fund, now in its third year. This Fund has a profound and lasting impact on our residents, offering support and grants that empower them to participate more effectively in work, study, and life. It also backs initiatives that promote mental health, well-being, social inclusion, and financial literacy. The Fund is generated by Elevate Residential, our profit-for-purpose real estate agency, which donates profits from its sales and property management fees.

This year, the Impact Fund has supported 421 residents, with $160,000 contributed by Elevate Residential. We are also thrilled to announce that we are on the verge of reaching the $1 million milestone in total contributions from Elevate Residential to the Impact Fund. This remarkable achievement is a testament to the dedication of BHC, Elevate Residential, and all of our clients and supporters.

We continuously measure the impact of the programs and initiatives funded by the Impact Fund through a robust outcomes measurement framework. These outcomes are detailed in our 2023-24 Impact Report, which also highlights additional community programs and partnerships BHC has established to further this strategic goal.

Refining our approach to impact measurement is an ongoing endeavour. We are committed to ensuring our programs and initiatives deliver the best possible outcomes. This commitment provides our valued stakeholders, clients, and supporters with meaningful insights into the difference their support makes in the lives of BHC residents.

Home and Health Program

Bridging the health divide

Our commitment to supporting residents and communities to thrive is exemplified through our Home and Health Program, a vital initiative funded by Brisbane City Council's Pathway out of Homelessness, with a co-contribution by BHC.

Launched in September 2023 with a generous $157,000 grant spanning three years, the Home and Health Program has been instrumental in addressing the health needs of those facing significant disadvantage within BHC communities. Led by BHC and partnering with Bric Housing, the program brings dedicated nurses from OneBridge, a specialist nursing provider, directly to our residents. These nurses operate place-based health clinics, offering intervention care and referrals for long-term specialist support, ensuring our residents feel cared for and supported.

OneBridge has conducted 59 BHC clinics and 29 Bric Housing clinics, providing health and wellbeing support to over 230 individuals with unique health needs. The program has facilitated more than 200 external referrals to various specialists, ensuring ongoing health management.

Some of the remarkable outcomes of the program include:

- Early detection of three potentially fatal skin cancer cases, with residents referred for necessary treatments.
- Support for residents with suicidal ideation, leading to life-saving interventions through suicide prevention wellbeing services.
- Assistance with blood pressure management and overall health improvement.
- Significant enhancement of health literacy among residents, emphasising the importance of sanitised wound care, dental hygiene, and effective management of diabetes and general health challenges.

There has been a 98.98% success rate in residents sustaining their tenancies under the Home and Health project support team's care. Additionally, there has been a reported 25% increase in self-improvement among those evaluated.

Many BHC residents are marginalised, with limited means, confidence, and ability to seek healthcare or navigate the complex healthcare structures to access adequate care. The program is specifically designed to assist these people, who are often most at risk of poor health outcomes from entrenched health disparities.

We know that when people are empowered and given the opportunity to be active participants in their own care, rather than passive recipients, the outcomes are significantly better. The Home and Health Program is testament to that.

Alicia's Story

Despite facing numerous challenges in her rental journey, Alicia remained determined to find a safe and stable home.

As a young woman with a disability, Alicia's former rental's proximity to her workplace seemed ideal, but the property presented many issues. "The walls had mould, the windows wouldn't close properly, and there was a hole in the ceiling patched with cardboard," she recalls. The lack of transparency and stability in her lease added to her stress, but she continued to press on, hopeful for a better living situation.

After six years, when she learned her lease wouldn't be renewed due to necessary renovations, Alicia was faced with the daunting task of finding a new rental as a single part-time worker with a disability. Undeterred, she applied for countless properties but often faced rejection. "Real estate agents look for the most secure applicants, usually couples with full-time jobs. As an autistic adult working part-time, I was never the first choice," she explains. Her visible disability, requiring the use of a walking stick, often led to unconscious bias. With the fear of homelessness looming overhead, Alicia considered putting her belongings in storage and couch surfing with friends or even living in her car or a tent if necessary.

Just two weeks before she would have been made homeless, Alicia found a listing for a unit within her budget on realestate.com.au. This led her to BHC, and although she initially didn't consider community housing, the prospect of a clean, private, and affordable unit gave her hope. When she was offered a BHC property, the relief was immense. "I had asked already for two extensions from my old real estate and was on an absolute deadline," she admits.

Now settled, Alicia describes a typical day involving work, medical appointments, playing music, and tending to her plants. Feeling safe and secure in her new home has significantly improved her mental health, providing a stable environment that helps her manage her autism and PTSD. "Having a secure, clean, and private place to live helps me regulate and prevent meltdowns," she says.

Sam's Story

For many, the concept of a stable home is a distant dream, often replaced by the harsh reality of housing stress and instability. This was the case for Sam, a BHC resident who has been working in academia as a casual tutor for the last 11 years, and who faced a series of challenging living situations before moving into one of BHC's Fortitude Valley properties.

"My entire renting history is riddled with experiences of housing stress," Sam explained. From living in a tent in a friend's backyard to renting a unit in Annerley that presented numerous issues, including mouldy curtains and a leaky gas stove, Sam's situation was far from ideal.

As a long-term renter, Sam often experienced anxiety in the lead-up to securing a new rental. "Usually, about three months before a lease is up, I start planning and preparing for the next place, and the associated anxiety begins to build. But I'm used to playing the private rental market game."

"I've been doing it all my life, even though it has become much tougher recently," he added.

Now, with the stability of his BHC home, Sam is able to enjoy the simple things in life, from preparing meals to keeping his home neat and clean. "Nothing to brag about, but having basic comforts—food, shelter, warmth—makes me happy."

However, the current rental crisis in Australia remains deeply troubling for Sam. "Having a safe and secure place to sleep and reside should not be a privilege," he stated.

"Even though I haven't had to rely on them yet, I know where my local shelters are. Given my shaky rental history, I want to be as prepared as I can be for the very real possibility of becoming homeless."

Without his BHC home, Sam believes he would still be struggling with housing stress, moving frequently, paying more rent than he could afford, or possibly facing homelessness. "It feels like winning the lottery. I consider myself very lucky to have applied and been successful in securing my BHC home. It's wonderful waking up in a safe and secure place."

Alicia's stable living situation has enabled her to volunteer in community theatre again, a passion she had to abandon six years ago due to burnout. She now works casually in musical theatre and volunteers in the same field. Looking to the future, Alicia hopes to return to study. "I would love to return to writing, but I feel this may still be a while away," she said.

In just a short time, Alicia's journey with BHC has provided her with stability and security; positively impacting her health, employment, and community involvement.

"The unit is starting to look and feel like my home more and more," Alicia said.

23/24 highlights from Elevate Residential

What an incredible year it has been for Elevate Residential! I am thrilled to share some of the highlights and achievements that have made this year so special.

First and foremost, I want to give a huge shoutout to our fantastic team. We've welcomed some amazing new members, including a Senior Property Manager and Property Manager Assistant, who have hit the ground running and are already making significant contributions. Their energy and dedication have been truly inspiring. We all feel very fortunate to work in a profession we love while also being able to make meaningful differences in the lives of others.

Our new team members have helped manage our growing listings, which means our impact is expanding too. Each new listing represents another opportunity to support our community and contribute to the BHC Impact Fund. I'm excited to announce that we are on the verge of reaching the $1 million mark in total contributions to the Impact Fund. This milestone is a testament to the hard work and dedication of everyone involved.

This year, I've had the pleasure of connecting with many organisations, including Q Shelter, Lady Musgrave Trust, Property Council of Australia, Arkhefield, ADG Engineers, Saunders Havill, McCullough Robertson and Inertia Engineering. It's been wonderful to spread the word about Elevate Residential and the incredible support we provide through initiatives like Project 55, which provides financial support for secure and stable housing for women over 55. These conversations have been incredibly rewarding, and it's exciting to see the growing interest and support for our mission.

Additionally, we've been able to grow our portfolio to support more purpose-driven organisations such as not for profits, schools and charities along with specialist disability providers with their property management requirements. Our commitment to supporting other values aligned organisations is a significant focus for our organisation, and it's motivating to see the positive impact we're making together in this area.

We are also proud to share that Elevate Residential has been nominated for and received several awards this year. I was incredibly honoured to win the REIQ 2023 Business Development Manager of the Year. This award means so much to me, as do the nominations of my team members, as it is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our entire team. It's lovely to see our efforts acknowledged and celebrated.

Thank you to everyone who has been part of our journey this year. Your support and belief in our mission mean the world to us. Here's to another year of growth, impact, and making a difference together!

Project 55 update

In May 2023, Elevate Residential and BHC proudly launched Project 55, a groundbreaking initiative to support older women over 55 at risk of homelessness. By partnering with Elevate Residential, property owners make a powerful impact, with 100% of profits from their managed properties sponsoring safe, affordable housing at BHC's New Farm property.

To get involved and join Project 55 visit elevateresidential.com.au/project 55

“Nearing the $1 million mark in contributions that Elevate Residential has made to the Impact Fund has given us all a moment of pause. When we started Elevate six years ago, we had a vision of what success would be, but the countless lives we’ve touched and the positive changes we’ve contributed to in the BHC community has surpassed all expectations. This milestone highlights the Elevate Residential team’s collective dedication and the profound impact we can make when we work together.”

Financial operations summary

Revenue increased from $36.2m in 2022/23 to $58.7m in 2023/24. The increase was primarily due to the increase in grant revenue from $14.3m in 2022/23 to $35.5m in 2023/24, reflecting the recognition of up-front capital grants used to fund development projects in 2023/24. Expenses were $26.7m in 2023/24, broadly in line with the amount in 2022/23.

During 2023/24, BHC invested approximately $75m in new social and affordable housing developments, reflecting the significant pipeline of new projects that BHC is progressing through land acquisition, development approval and construction. Funding was sourced through a combination of capital grants and borrowings.

Through the Housing Investment Fund (HIF) and the consortium with QIC, BHC will access long-term financing via institutional investment with Australian Retirement Trust (ART) and Housing Australia to deliver social and affordable housing at scale. In addition, the Commonwealth Government's Housing Australia Future Fund (HAFF) will provide funding opportunities for BHC to further support the delivery of more social and affordable housing.

“The support I’ve received from Anthony and the BHC team has been incredible. If it wasn’t for them, I wouldn’t be here”

- Robin, BHC Resident

Robin’s Story

At the age of 51, Robin found himself living out of his car, facing the harsh reality of homelessness. At his sister’s encouragement, Robin sought assistance at Brisbane City Council’s Homeless Connect event, where he engaged with BHC’s Allocations Team to explore potential housing solutions.

With their support, Robin was offered a room in one of BHC’s boarding rooms. Soon after moving in, Robin connected with BHC’s Resident Participation and Employment Coordinator, Anthony.

Despite previous efforts with a job agency, Robin struggled to find the right support to secure employment. Knowing Robin’s desire to find stable work, Anthony provided personalised guidance, helping Robin with his resume and interview preparation. Robin was able to secure a job as a truck driver, and later, found an opportunity for a permanent, full-time role at a food processing factory.

With Anthony’s help in interview coaching and confidence-building, Robin successfully navigated the process, was offered the position, and happily accepted it.

Robin appreciates the new role and enjoys the work. “The support I’ve received from Anthony and the BHC team has been incredible. If it wasn’t for them, I wouldn’t be here,” Robin reflects.

With his stable employment and improved financial situation, Robin transitioned to a studio unit at one of BHC’s northside properties. Furnishing the new space was made easier through BHC’s Kickstart Grant, which allowed Robin to purchase a bed and mattress. Grateful for the support, Robin shared, “I was using an air mattress, but it was difficult to get up from each morning. The Kickstart Grant made a big difference.”
